Dear Sir/Madam,

We present to you the thirteenth edition of our Software Licensing Bulletin, which highlights prominent features of HPE® Software Licence.

Importance of proper Software Licence Transfer (SLT).

SLT varies according to the contract client holds with HPE. Aforementioned link is just form initiating transfer procedure. None of EULA has elaborate explanation about SLT.

Do’s and Don’ts of MSP Licensing

_Do’s_

1) MSP products are eligible to be used for providing services to end-user customers located in the specified territory, such eligible products can be installed at sites which are owned by the customer or owned by the customer's client for which the customer is providing managed services. The customer should have control over such sites and should provide HP the address of the site prior to installation.

2) During the period of agreement, the customer should track complete and accurate records on the installation and Use of Eligible Products licensed under this agreement and provide the same to HP.

3) The customer shall remove or destroy all instances of the eligible software after providing services to the end-client and confirm the same to HP in writing upon termination of the services with the end-client.

_Don’ts_

1) The customer is not allowed to extend the use of HP software to its end-user customer beyond the stipulated term.

2) The customer cannot transfer the software use rights to any other party and can only be used to serve its end-client.

3) The customer cannot use the eligible software for internal use such as training, evaluation etc.

We hope the bulletin was informative. We would be happy to arrange for any additional information that you may require on the subject. Please write to us at in-fmkpmgccsbulletin@kpmg.com, for any queries or feedback.
