Boardroom Questions
The Global Goals for Sustainable Development: 2015 - 2030

What does it mean for businesses?

The Global Goals are an opportunity for businesses to grow and profit by collaborating with others to create a world which is more prosperous, inclusive, sustainable and resilient.

Global imperative

- The impacts of extreme poverty such as hunger, disease, unemployment and conflict are becoming ever more apparent
- Weak governance, lack of infrastructure and rising inequalities are limiting economic and social development
- Natural resource depletion and environmental degradation is contributing to water, food and energy crises

Why is this happening now?

- There is growing consensus from government, private sector and civil society actors that it is in our collective interest to collaborate to improve the state of our world
- 193 member States of the United Nations meet in September 2015 to adopt 17 new Global Goals and 169 targets for the sustainable development of humanity and our planet over the fifteen year period to 2030

Why these Global Goals may be relevant for your organization

- The Global Goals, which are universal, apply to all nations and people seeking to tackle inequality and leave nobody behind. Therefore companies operating in different countries need to understand any potential impact to their operational models.
- The integration of relevant Goals into business strategies and sharing of knowledge, expertise, technology and financial resources to progress “the global partnership” to meet the Global Goals, may require a strategy review.
- Goals are wide ranging including ending poverty and hunger, ensuring sustainable consumption and production, and promoting peaceful and inclusive societies which may result in organizations reviewing their procurement and people policies.
- The UN is leading a significant focus on the ‘means of implementation’ including data, finance and accountability mechanisms.

Potential opportunities for growth

- New and expanding multi-stakeholder partnerships offer opportunities for innovation and growth
- Companies acting responsibly and driving inclusive sustainable development can enhance their reputation with customers, clients, investors and other stakeholders
- More enabling environments open up new markets

Potential impact for business in getting it wrong

- Competitive disadvantage as companies driving sustainable development gain first access to new markets and opportunities
- Lack of security due to access to natural resources including land, water and energy
- Brand and reputational damage could lose support from customers, clients, investors and governments
Boardroom Questions

1. How can you strengthen your value creation strategy so that by applying a ‘shared value’ lens you identify the business opportunity in addressing economic, social and environmental challenges (thereby increasing your contribution to the Global Goals)?

2. Have you considered whether your procurement and employment strategies are aligned to the Global Goals?

3. How are you managing your company’s exposure to water, energy, food, climate and social risks?

4. Have you issued a statement on human rights and developed a strategy to ‘do no harm’ and also proactively uphold human rights across your sphere of influence?

5. What opportunity do the emerging middle classes in high growth markets represent for your business?

6. How will progress towards the Global Goals affect market opportunities and the competitor landscape?

7. How can you innovate to reach customers/clients on low incomes in your home country and/or overseas?

8. How do you collaborate with other organizations in your industry to develop and adopt good practice principles and standards to drive positive change?

9. How are you fostering a culture of innovation and collaboration to seize new multi-stakeholder partnership opportunities?

10. Does your workforce have the diversity, skills and attributes to innovate and succeed in our changing world?

11. Do you have the right systems and processes in place to more effectively tell your value creation story?

What actions could the Board consider?

- Protect and enhance your organization’s reputation by acting responsibly in pursuit of inclusive, sustainable prosperity
- Review, and where necessary improve, systems to measure, manage and report the company’s contribution to growing inclusive, sustainable prosperity – through integrated or supplementary reporting
- Ensure you have the values, resource, knowledge and capability to implement the actions above
- Conduct a thorough refresh of your stakeholder, risk and value creation analyses to ensure your strategy reflects the changing social, environmental and policy landscape
- Assess opportunities to collaborate with other businesses, governments, civil society, the United Nations, development banks and academia in order to drive innovation and shared value
