Myanmar has quickly risen to become one of the fastest-growing economies in the world. Its GDP growth rate currently outpaces most major economies in East and Southeast Asia. As a developing country, Myanmar holds economic potential due to its rich abundance of natural resources, large and increasing workforce, and government initiatives to support trade and industries with new investment laws, infrastructure projects and the removal of structural impediments to growth.

While Myanmar is becoming an investment ground because of recent moves to support political stability and drive foreign direct investments through improved relationships with other nations, it also needs to continuously develop itself in terms of infrastructure, easing legal restrictions, and building a strong education foundation for its workforce.

With our expertise in various industries, along with a network of global support, KPMG in Myanmar is here to help foreign and local businesses build a strong foundation in Myanmar as well as navigate the complexities of doing business within the country.
In 2016, Myanmar recorded the fastest economic growth in the world1, following political progress and a successful national election in 2015 which led to the easing of most sanctions against the country. This will further accelerate economic growth and help Myanmar achieve its goal of becoming a modern and developed nation. Myanmar has many attributes that will attract foreign investors including natural resources, a large and young population, rich culture and strategic location. The new Myanmar Investment Law is also positive for the overall business environment, foreign investment and infrastructure development as the government looks to build roads, electricity and ports over the coming years.

GROWING ECONOMY

The relaxation of sanctions as well as a peaceful election have helped Myanmar open up to international markets, facilitating trade, driving foreign direct investment (FDI) and helping remove structural impediments to growth.

It has continued to post growth and attract foreign investment. Moreover, the development of special economic zones (SEZs) also helps to attract FDI, including spurring developments in transport infrastructure. Three SEZs are currently being developed at Thilawa, Dawei and Kyaukpyu.

ECONOMIC POTENTIAL AS A REGIONAL TRANSIT HUB

Myanmar is rich in natural resources, which makes it a promising location for hydrocarbons, mining, agriculture and forestry. The products from the natural resources industry constitute Myanmar’s largest export with strong growth in manufacturing and tourism as well. Consequently, economic growth is expected to remain robust over the medium term as investment continues to pour in and the operating environment improves under the new civilian government. Myanmar is gradually embracing wide-ranging reforms including politics, economic openness, and intellectual property laws. The reforms together with its low-cost of labor allow investors to tap into its strong potential for growth.

More economic openness

- Improved engagement with the West and the lifting of remaining US sanctions in October 2016
- New Myanmar Investment Law (MIL) represents a positive sign that the government is seeking to improve the business environment
- Simpler new Myanmar Investment Commission (MIC) endorsement of investments for faster project approvals
- Expected major investment from China, the US, Japan, India and Singapore in light of ongoing efforts to improve bilateral ties with these countries

New intellectual property laws

- New intellectual property laws in accordance with the Association of Southeast Asian Nations Framework Agreement on Intellectual Property Cooperation. This law is likely to be enacted before the deadline of 2021 stipulated by the World Trade Organization

Myanmar expects to achieve its goal to become a modern, developed and democratic nation by 2030. The country’s improved relationships with developed nations should be positive for FDI. There are incentives for foreign corporations investing in SEZs and for foreign investors, the incentives include an increasingly pro-business environment, its endowment of natural resources, large labor force, rich culture and strategic location.13

Myanmar’s GDP growth in 2018 is expected to reach 7.5%14, driven by the relaxation of sanctions, increasing openness to international markets, efforts to facilitate trade, drive for FDI and removal of structural impediments to growth.15

INVESTING IN GROWTH

Agriculture16

- Agricultural production prospects are bright over the long term based on the country’s resource endowment, strategic location and encouraging foreign investment regulation
- The country enjoys a diversified agricultural sector with varied sub-segments
- Production and exports of rice and corn will remain on an ascent in the coming years

Infrastructure17

- Myanmar’s infrastructure sector is more attractive for foreign investors and contractors especially in the Asia Pacific region which receives Asian development funds
- Robust tourist arrivals and rising urbanization levels are driving demand for infrastructure

Manufacturing18

- Investment in SEZs will be positive for its fledging manufacturing sector
- The country’s low-cost and flexible labor force is a key asset to growing its manufacturing base
