

Tax reform for tax-exempt organizations and donors

Congress has passed the conference agreement for tax reform.

Background

On Friday, December 15, the conference committee approved the report of its agreement on H.R. 1, the tax reform bill. The conference report is a compromise bill, blending elements of both the previously passed House and Senate versions of the bill. The House on December 19 passed the conference report. The Senate then passed a modified version of the bill to strike three provisions that violated Senate rules, including the “tuition-paying” requirement in determining whether a private college or university is subject to the excise tax on its endowment. Today, the House passed H.R. 1, as revised by the Senate.

Provisions for tax-exempt organizations

A number of provisions in H.R. 1 would affect tax-exempt organizations and their donors, including:

- Impose a 1.4% excise tax on the investment income of certain private colleges and universities
- Impose an entity-level tax on excess compensation
- Compute unrelated business taxable income (“UBTI”) separately for each unrelated trade or business
- Include the value of certain fringe benefits that are non-deductible under section 274 as UBTI

The charts below identify certain provisions and highlight differences among the House bill, Senate bill, and H.R. 1 (the conference report), as modified on December 20, 2017.
