Our Value Proposition

- Our tax professionals have strong accounting backgrounds and are fully conversant with current International Financial Reporting Standards. This knowledge is critical to tax and legal advice which is to be applied by corporate clients that are required to comply with these standards.
- Our people are recognised as market leaders in their respective fields, and are often quoted in the press, presenting at thought leader forums, lecturing at universities, etc.
- We function in a sector that is competitive and constantly changing. As one of the sector leaders, we differentiate ourselves by offering our clients valuable insight, business understanding, a composite methodology and the kind of value-add that derives from an authentic team-based and multi-disciplinary environment.

Our Approach to Tax

Historically, tax professional firms have organized themselves around the various tax technical areas such as Corporate Tax, Tax Compliance, Transfer Pricing, International Tax, VAT, Employment Taxes and Customs. The result was that tax advisory firms often provided tax advice in “tax type” isolation resulting in tax exposures due to a failure of recognizing the interaction between the various forms of taxation. Furthermore, a disconnect between business principles and tax management often arose. KPMG recognizes that deep tax technical specialism remains critically important in providing tax services. The global environment is one where knowledge is freely available, where massive amounts of data is produced, where this data is organised by complex systems with limited human input and where reconciliations of financial data and different taxes are required. In this new global environment, tax technical skills are simply “not enough”.

The Tax Reimagined mindset recognizes that at the core of each tax challenge rests a particular business event which must be unpacked in its different components. Therefore, we recognise the need and we focus on adding value through the implementation of a well-defined and developed tax risk management framework.

Our Engagement Experience

Ongoing communication with our clients.

We share industry and tax knowledge, discuss changes to the business that may have a tax impact and confirm customer satisfaction Holistic, innovative solutions to complex problems.

We commit to proposing holistic, multidisciplinary solutions to any tax risks identified. These solutions will consider and seek to involve, where necessary, VAT, PAYE, technology, international tax, transfer pricing, customs and excise as well as income tax specialists. To the extent that it may significantly improve efficiency we will consider and discuss potential technology solutions with management.

Availability.

Our partners and staff are always available at anytime to act as sounding boards and to address time sensitive issues.

Deep tax technical skills linked to deep industry knowledge and company knowledge.

We are tax advisors, working together to deliver business solutions to our clients. Our team consists of Chartered Accountants specialising in tax and tax accounting.

In addition to being highly tax proficient, we train our tax team to:

- Provide tax advice within the context of the digitization of the economy and modern ERP systems;
- Understand business and develop tax solutions and value add accordingly
- To communicate well with clients and tax authorities – local and international, verbal and in writing;
- To think laterally, focus on solutions that are not only within the law, but also takes into account business.

“Responsible Taxation”.

We believe in the sovereignty of the law. We also believe in “Responsible Taxation” where every taxpayer recognizes the critical role responsible and compliant taxpayers plays in the local and global economy.

Tax is a serious matter

It is becoming increasingly important to remain fully compliant from a tax perspective and this has placed significant pressure on tax executives responsible to manage tax in the organisation. In addition, the Tax Administration Act includes significant penalties, interest and even regards certain matters of non-compliance as criminal offences.

It is now more than ever important to partner with the right tax advisor. We can provide you with the right support and guidance, giving you the peace of mind that your tax affairs are tax management are under control and your compliance obligations are well looked after.
