Introduction: Namibia Fiscal Guide 2019

Income tax

Business income

Income tax is levied under the Income Tax Act No 24 of 1981, as amended on both individuals and companies, with the exception of petroleum income derived from exploration areas, which is taxed under the Petroleum Taxation Act 1991. Tax is imposed on all receipts and accruals from a Namibian source, other than receipts of a capital nature. Special provisions relate to companies involved in mining, farming and insurance..

 1 We note that profits on the sale of a mineral licence or right to mine minerals, or a petroleum licence or right to mine petroleum; or the direct or indirect sale of shares in a company holding such licences or rights is subject to income tax.

 Tax is withheld at source and is final. The rate of tax is 20% but may be reduced to 10% where the beneficial owner holds more than 25% of the share capital of the company paying the dividends. The rate may be reduced in terms of Double Tax Agreements.

* As from 20 December 2015, the withholding tax on royalties is taxed at 10% and is a final tax. Before this date, the rate was based on the corporate tax rate applied to 30% of the gross royalty payable.

^ With effect from 21 June 2016, director's and entertainment fees are subject to a 25% withholding tax rate. The withholding tax rate for management and consultancy fees remained at a rate of 10%.

Capital gains tax

There is no capital gains tax in Namibia. However, tax is imposed on any amount received or accrued as consideration or the open market value from the sale, donation, expropriation, cession, grant or other alienation or transfer of a mineral licence or right to mine minerals; or a petroleum licence or right to mine petroleum (including the direct or indirect sale, donation, expropriation, cession, grant or other alienation or transfer of shares in a company holding one of these licences or rights). Certain costs may be deducted in this regard with limitations on the creation of losses as well.

Transfer pricing and thin capitalisation rules

The transfer pricing rules apply where goods or services are supplied or acquired in an international transaction between connected persons at a price less or greater than the arm's length price. Where the transfer pricing rules apply, the Minister of Finance may adjust the consideration in respect of the international transaction to reflect an arm's length price in determining the taxable income of the acquirer or the supplier.

Namibia also has thin capitalisation rules in terms of which the deduction of interest may be disallowed. This applies if the Minister of Finance is of the opinion that the value of the financial assistance granted to a Namibian company by a non-resident connected person or a non-resident that holds at least 25% of the shares in the Namibian entity is excessive in relation to the Namibian company's fixed capital. For this purpose, a debt-to-equity ratio of 3:1 is generally applied in practice.

It should be noted that the 3:1 debt to equity ratio is not prescribed in the Income Tax Act and is per the Bank of Namibia guidelines.

General anti-avoidance rules (GAAR)

Namibia's general anti-avoidance rules apply where:

- The Minister of Finance considers that a transaction, scheme or operation has been entered into which has the effect of avoiding or postponing liability for the payment of any tax imposed by the Income Tax Act;
- The transaction or scheme was entered into in an abnormal manner or has created rights not normally created in arm's length transactions; and
- The transaction or scheme was carried out solely or mainly for the purpose of avoiding, postponing or reducing an income tax liability.

Where GAAR applies, the Minister of Finance will determine the tax imposed by the Income Tax Act as if the transaction or scheme had not been entered into or as deemed appropriate for the prevention or diminution of such avoidance, postponement or reduction.

General anti-avoidance rules (GAAR)

The Minister of Finance may also disallow the off- set of a company's assessed loss against the company's income, where the Minister of Finance is satisfied that any agreement or change in shareholding was effected by any person, solely or mainly for the purpose of utilising the company's assessed loss by (generally) diverting income to that company to avoid or reduce the tax liability of the company or any other person.

Inheritances and donations

There is no estate duty or donations tax in Namibia.

Transaction taxes

Value-added tax (VAT) is payable at the rate of 15% on the value of goods supplied or imported. The rate is subject to annual review by the Minister.

The compulsory VAT registration threshold is N$500 000 and N$200 000 for voluntary registrations.

Stamp and transfer duty

Stamp duty is levied at various rates on instruments referred to in schedule 1 of the Stamp Duties Act 1993. It includes mortgage / notarial bonds, transfer deeds, lease agreements, partnership agreements, insurance policies, security or suretyship, bills of exchange other than cheques, and promissory notes. Natural persons pay stamp duty on transfer deeds at a rate of N$ 10 for every N$ 1 000 or part thereof on the value exceeding N$ 600 000. Persons, including trusts, other than natural persons pay stamp duty on transfer deeds at a rate of N$ 12 for every N$ 1 000 or part thereof.

Transfer duty is levied on the value of land and buildings or mining rights acquired under the Transfer Duty Act 1993. The rates payable by natural persons are as follows:

Up to N$600 000	0%
N$600 001 – N$1 000 000	1% of the amount in excess of N$600 000
N$1 000 001 – N$2 000 000	N$4 000 plus 5% of the amount in excess of N$1 000 000
N$2 000 000 +	N$54 000 plus 8% of the amount in excess of N$2 000 000

Persons other than natural persons pay transfer duty at a flat rate of 12% on the value of the property acquired.

Double tax treaties and reduced rates

Namibia has certain withholding taxes, the rates of which may be reduced in terms of a double tax agreement.

Currently, the maximum rate for NRST payable on dividends received is 20%, with 10% for royalties; 10% for interest; 10% for management and consultancy fees and 25% for director's and entertainment fees.

1. The lower rate applies where the beneficial owner / recipient is a company which holds directly or in some cases indirectly at least 10% of the (share) capital of the company paying the dividends. The higher rate applies in all other cases.
2. The lower rate applies where the beneficial owner is a company which holds indirectly or directly, or in some cases only directly, at least 25% of the share capital of the company paying the dividends. The higher rate applies in all other cases.
3. The lower rate applies where the beneficial owner is a company which holds directly at least 25% of the share capital of the company paying the dividends and has directly invested in the equity share capital of that company not less than US$100 000. The higher rate applies in all other cases.
4. The lower rate applies where the recipient is a company which controls at least 50% of the entire voting power in the company paying the dividend. The higher rate applies in all other cases.
5. The lower rate applies where the royalties are paid in terms of any patent, secret formula or process, or for information concerning industrial or scientific experience. The higher rate applies in all other cases where the recipient is the beneficial owner of the royalties.
6. In certain circumstances the withholding tax on services fees may be reduced to 0% under the business profits article.

Investment Information

Investment rules

In general, the attitude towards foreign investment is positive but the government considers it a priority that Namibians should have adequate opportunities to participate fully and effectively in the development of the country's natural resources and industries. These objectives are administered through the Investment Promotion Act of 2016 by the Namibia Investment Centre, a division of the Ministry of Industrialization, Trade and SME Development. The Investment Promotion Act serves to promote economic growth and sustainable development through the evaluation of investment proposals and the issuance of recommendations to the Ministry regarding the approval of proposals. The Minister may, by regulations, reserve certain economic or business sectors for the State, Namibians and entities with a Namibian majority-ownership, for joint ventures between Namibian and foreign investors or investments that qualify in terms of section 4 of the Act.

Further provision has been made for economic empowerment through the National Equitable Economic Empowerment Framework ('NEEEF') bill. This economic framework, once enacted, will empower the 'previously disadvantaged' – persons with disabilities, women and those deemed to be racially-disadvantaged. It sets out the requirement that 'previously disadvantaged' persons be granted a 25% shareholding within a private sector enterprise with the intention of achieving economic empowerment and transformation.

Further restrictions limit the transferability of NEEEF share allotments to other 'previously disadvantaged' persons only.

Policies implemented by the private and public sector, that are aimed at empowerment and transformation, will be expected to conform to NEEEF. It is the intention of government to implement policies that align to the principles upheld by NEEEF.

Investment incentives

Export Processing Zone ("EPZ")

The EPZ Act 1995 provides for the establishment, development and management of EPZs. A certificate must be obtained from the relevant EPZ managing entity before an EPZ enterprise may be set up. Benefits accruing to EPZ enterprises are as follows:

- No VAT will be payable;
- No customs and excise duty will be payable on imports or goods manufactured in an EPZ;
- No income tax will be payable in respect of income derived in an EPZ by an EPZ management company or enterprise;
- No transfer duty will be payable in respect of the acquisition of immovable property situated in an EPZ nor any stamp duty on deeds relating to activities in an EPZ; and
- The provisions of the Namibia Investment Promotion Act and the Labour Act 2007 (subject to certain conditions) do not apply in an EPZ.

Subsidised loans for the establishment and expansion of manufacturing enterprises, concessional loans or cash grants of up to 50% for certain export promotion costs and assistance with feasibility studies, are available.

Registered Manufacturers

Entities carrying a registered manufacturer status may:

- Apply a tax rate of 18% for a 10-year period (the year in which the registration is effected and each of the following 9 years);
- Deduct 125% of certain land-based transportation costs for a 10-year period from the effective year of registration as a registered manufacturer;
- Deduct an allowance equal to 80% of taxable income derived from exports of goods (excluding fish and meat products);
- Deduct 125% of training costs incurred in respect of employees directly involved in a manufacturing process;
- Deduct 125% of remuneration costs in respect of employees directly involved in a manufacturing process; and
- Deduct 125% of certain export marketing costs. Generous capital allowances are available in respect of expenditure on fixed assets.

It should be noted that a proposal was made during the 2019 Budget Speech to phase out the preferential treatment granted to certain manufacturers and to repeal the EPZs and introduce Special Economic Zones ("SEZs").

Investment Information

Exchange control

Namibia is part of the Common Monetary Area (CMA), together with South Africa, Lesotho and Swaziland, and has few restrictions on inward investment by foreign investors. Prior approval is not required where the requisite funds are introduced through normal banking channels.

Remittance of profits, interest and fees, licences and royalties may be made although prior approval is required. The receipt of loan funding from abroad is subject to specific exchange control approval.

Residence and work permits

Work permits are required for all foreign citizens wishing to take up employment in Namibia.

Considerable delays may be experienced in obtaining work permits.

Annual budget announcement

The Minister of Finance generally announces the annual Budget and Taxation Proposals in March or April of each year.

Trade and bilateral agreements

Membership: WTO, ACP-EU Partnership Agreement, SADC, SACU and COMESA.
